

ABSTRACT

According to the present invention, a plurality of data items are displayed in different display forms corresponding to attributes of the data items in a list by recording a computer-readable recording medium with a data item list display program for causing a computer to display the data items in the different display forms in the list, the display forms corresponding to the respective attributes of the data items. Therefore, a data item can be displayed in the same display format in a list of data items of different attributes and in a list of data items of a single attribute, thus allowing users to easily understand the lists without confusion.

SCANNED, # 12